INFORMATION:

RAWA is a boutique festival with a maximum of 130 participants. We hope this will provide a greater opportunity for conversation and engagement in a more relaxed setting. The strands of the RAWA programme have been designed to appeal to both readers and writers. The larger sessions (in black text) will be of interest to both, while the smaller sessions (in red text) provide practice-based workshop experiences that will appeal to people interested in developing or sharpening their writing skills and/or publishing practices.

Please indicate your preferences below and return this form to ACAC: art@akaroaarts.co.nz

Please note: The red text sessions are limited to 25 people. We will do our best to confirm your preferred sessions. In the event of your choice(s) being fully booked, we will come back to you to discuss options.
